

Please insure your rabbit!

Veterinary medicine has become increasingly sophisticated. We are able to diagnose and treat many conditions that a few years ago would have remained undetected, often with fatal consequences. The downside of these advances is costs.

The health of your rabbit cannot be taken for granted - no matter how well you look after them.

If your rabbit becomes ill, providing the best care quickly without worrying about cost will be priority. Taking out insurance gives you peace of mind as it covers the cost of veterinary treatment at times of accident or illness.

Our only interest as a Veterinary Practice is to ensure we never compromise the quality of veterinary care on the basis of cost.
